

2018--2019 COURSE SYLLABUS

COURSE AP English Literature and Composition

Course description:

Welcome to Advanced Placement English Literature and Composition. This is the last English class you will be taking in high school. The purpose of this course is to meet graduation requirements and help you develop the reading, analysis, and writing skills that will make you an effective scholar and citizen. This course will also prepare you to take the Advanced Placement Exam in English Literature and Composition. Bear in mind that most universities will deny your application if you earn less than a C in this course. The following is a list of my rules and policies and a description of my grading system. If you understand and follow these guidelines, you should have no trouble succeeding in this class.

Jennifer Reynaga

jennifer-reynaga@scusd.edu ; after hours jl_r_jfkhs@hotmail.com

Textbook

DiYanni, Robert. Literature: Approaches to Fiction, Poetry, and Drama

Required Materials:

Current text, lined paper, blue/black pen

Grading Policy

Students will earn 10 points a week for the successful completion of whatever process assignments there are in the week. Most product scores will be 100 points (there will be 8-10 product scores) The course grade is a percentage based on the number of points possible.

--Process assignments—these assignments are preparation for class activities. They include preparing short drafts and reading quizzes. These assignments are graded immediately. Students may not make them up. This work will constitute the ten points students earn each week

--Product—these assignments demonstrate student mastery of course content and skill. These include literary analysis essays, personal narrative essays, projects, and released AP multiple choice exams. Some of these assignments may be resubmitted/reattempted in order to raise scores. These assignments will be clearly indicated on Infinite Campus.

--Senior Project—first semester each students will choose their project and submit the two forms necessary for approval. Second semester students will submit proof of having performed 20+ hours to complete their project, and students will write and present a reflective essay of their project. Students must complete project hours any time between 7/1/17 to 4/1/18.

Course Outline

We will be reading literature spanning many genres, continents, and centuries We will read and analyze most or all of the texts listed below and learn appropriate literary terminology and cultural context for each text. Other texts will be added as necessary.

First Semester all students will complete the following:

1. an extended poetry analysis followed by a dramatic recitation

2018--2019 COURSE SYLLABUS

2. a college personal statement (We will be using the University of California prompts, but students are allowed to use prompts from other universities.)
3. Three AP English Literature and Composition released multiple choice exams week 4,9, and 18)
4. a minimum of six analytical essays, three of which will contribute significantly to the semester grade.
5. senior project forms

Second Semester all students will complete the following:

1. a minimum of six analytical essays, three of which will contribute significantly to the semester grade. One of these essays will be 3-5 typed pages.
2. an extended annotation of a complex text
3. an AP English Literature and Composition released multiple choice exam
4. a post-modernist art exercise
5. senior project verification and reflection essay

Ancient Near Eastern literature (Selections from The Epic of Gilgamesh, Genesis, 5 Psalms, and Ruth)

The Odyssey

Oedipus the King

Canterbury Tales (selections)

Macbeth

Shakespeare and the Metaphysical poets (sonnet focus)

Pride and Prejudice

A Doll's House

"A Modest Proposal," "Body Ritual Among the Nacirema," "An Image of Africa"

The Metamorphosis

Heart of Darkness

The Sound of Waves

Romeo and Juliet

Jane Eyre

One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest

Modern Poetry (Yeats, Cummings, Dickinson, T.S. Eliot, etc.)

Course Objectives : Students will learn to analyze and discuss a wide variety of culturally significant creative and non-fiction texts. Students will also learn to compose effective narrative and literary texts. Students will frequently contribute to in-class analysis discussions using appropriate and clear spoken language.

Academic Expectations:

--Students will come to class on time and well-prepared (this includes bringing all necessary materials)

--Students will use appropriate and respectful language during all class activities.

--Students will actively participate in all class activities. This includes asking questions!

--Students will use technology appropriately. We will use digital devices from time to time in class. However, students must ask permission before using digital devices. Under no circumstances should a student record another student, class materials, or the teacher without explicit prior permission.