

ADVANCED PLACEMENT ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND COMPOSITION
(EZS328 - EZS329; 10 total credits)

Advanced Placement (AP) English Language and Composition provides eleventh-grade students with a college-level composition course whose expressed purpose, as stated in the AP Course Description, is "to enable students to read complex texts with understanding and to write prose of sufficient richness and complexity to communicate effectively with mature readers." To succeed on these fronts, you will carefully read and rigorously analyze a wide variety of prose texts, and explore an author's use of style, argumentation, and rhetorical techniques. An author's purpose and sense of audience are emphasized to fully appreciate and understand effective and powerful discourse. (These same criteria and skills are also used by you to recognize the aesthetic and rhetorical effects of visual texts.) You will compose numerous written works which vary in scope and focus – ranging from informal class journals and in-class timed essays to structured, multi-draft compositions in a variety of modes.

In short, you will occupy yourself with critical thinking, analytical reading and the practice of articulating your insights on the page with confidence. In addition to writing, you will regularly engage in analytical practice with AP released multiple-choice questions and essays prompts. Each unit focuses on a critical writing mode and incorporates associated concepts and readings. By mid-fourth quarter you should be prepared for the Advanced Placement Exam, which is developed and evaluated annually by The College Board and administered on Wednesday, May 10th, 2017. (Note: the exam is not required for this course, but it is highly recommended.) After the exam, a series of readings and projects brings the course to a close and creates a bridge to twelfth-grade English Literature and Composition.

During the school year, you will challenge assumptions and sharpen your critical thinking skills. In addition, you will produce quantities of quality work; continue to grow into a well-rounded student, active citizen, and conscientious human being; and contribute to an atmosphere of trust and exploration wherein you and your peers may take pride in, and ownership of your work. (You can do this.)

COURSE OUTLINE

The following literary forms are thoroughly explored, in close reading analysis and writing, throughout the course:

- Rhetorical Analysis
- Argumentation and Persuasion
- Synthesis

Literature studies emphasize works from America. You will survey the development of the interwoven historical, social, and philosophical threads that inspire America’s literature by distinguishing the styles of literary periods, reading and analyzing works from American authors, poets, lyricists, journalists and statesmen, and tracing the vision of “America” as interpreted, debated, and celebrated by its many voices over time.

We also cover assessments like the SAT, ACT and Smarter Balance CAASPP tests – and I refer often to the processes of college-searching and admissions, including the University of California A–G requirements. In the 3rd Quarter, students practice and engage the English Placement Test (EPT), part of the California State University Early Assessment Program (EAP).

COURSE OBJECTIVES & GRADING POLICY

Let’s do this. The class is an opportunity to gain knowledge together, to hone your process as a student, and to apply your practice to creating a worthy and satisfying series of assignments and projects that demonstrate your learning. Categories used in Infinite Campus are listed below.

HOMEWORK POLICY & LATE ASSIGNMENTS

Keep tabs on my online Calendar to keep track of missed assignments or assessments. Deadlines are deadlines. You are expected to complete your homework on a timely, consistent basis. Late assignments will not be accepted, so arrange to have someone relay the work if you will be absent. Proof of excused absence required. Track your progress using Infinite Campus Student Portal – and thanks in advance for your patience as I score assignments and essays.

CLASSROOM EXPECTATIONS

I'm looking forward to a productive, insightful, and enjoyable school year working with you. As in most working collaborations, some days can be better than others, so we learn to "do the work even on a bad day" and persevere. My role is to engineer opportunities of academic discovery for all students; that process will require habits of mind for critical thinking, habits of heart for respectful interaction, and the patience and stamina needed to fight through setbacks and frustrations.

BEHAVIOR

Respectful behavior is expected in the class: Respect for learning; Respect for property; Respect for boundaries; Respect for others; Respect for yourself.

The class involves everyone's needs for enrichment and advancement; therefore, classroom time means shared time with equal stakes for all. You are expected to respect and maximize this shared time without disruption. Don't waste our time. Please also understand that your personal needs – while important to you – cannot overtake the class agenda. Refer to the John F. Kennedy High School Discipline Policy Handbook for campus-wide rules for behavior and expectations. Take particular note of JFK's policies on plagiarism.

ATTENDANCE & TARDIES

Take attendance seriously -- missing multiple days of class in a semester, whether excused or unexcused, can endanger earning course credit. As the tardy bell rings, you are expected to be in your seat with necessary materials, ready to start. If you arrive late, don't break the flow – enter quietly without distraction. Absences and tardies erode your participation potential and leave you stranded on the runway while everyone else takes off.

ADDENDA

- Food and drink are prohibited: they distract and litter a classroom. Bottled water is recommended, but keep control -- leaving to the drinking fountain is not a valid use of class time. A responsible-enough class may eventually eat fruits or vegetables in class.
- Bathroom passes are offered very rarely during class because most students and teachers can capably handle an hour of focused learning. You are expected to use passing periods for bathroom needs. Please plan ahead to avoid class disruption and personal discomfort!
- Bring your own tissue paper, particularly during cold and flu season.

TECHNOLOGY & DIGITAL TOOLS

Be truly present. Your mobile devices need to be kept out of reach and out of sight in the classroom, unless I specifically allow their use in a lesson.

Also, technology breaks: Printers run dry, servers go down, files become corrupt, etc. These are not considered emergencies – they are a frustrating part of a normal process. Technology issues are no excuse for late work. Manage your time, prepare your printers, and back up your work to avoid unwelcome surprises. Refer to the John F. Kennedy High School Discipline Policy Handbook for campus-wide rules and policies about technology use.

EDMODO.com / TURNITIN.com / Remind.com

I will provide you with access codes for Edmodo, which uses a limited social media platform to share information and assignments, TurnItIn.com, an uploading site which cross-checks for plagiarism and allows for electronic feedback, and Remind, which allows me to send course-related text messages (one-way) to all the students in the class.
